50 years - a half a century - a Jubilee

Rabbi Myers

November/December 2019

Is it odd that I am excited to be turning 50? It's not that I'm unaware that I'm aging. I color my hair monthly. I have some pains in my knees and ankles. My kids have been bigger than me for some years. One of the preschoolers pointed to the myriad of dark spots on my arm and asked me, "What is that?" Sigh, with a smile, I took a moment to reinforce the importance of sunscreen. While I can't go back and undo the sun damage of my reckless youth, I can look forward to my fifth decade of life.

Jewishly speaking, fifty is significant. In the spring, we count off 49 days of the Omer starting with our liberation out of Egypt at Passover. And then we reach 50 and we celebrate Shavuot, the revelation of Torah at Sinai. I do feel that I am able to appreciate the wisdom of our Torah in ways that eluded me in previous decades simply because I have perspective. I have learned much from my mistakes and successes, but am also humbled by my work and my children. I feel anchored by the roots of our tradition but know how important it is to plant seeds for the next generation. Torah and learning continue to be inspiring parts of my life and my rabbinate.

In Pirkei Avot (Chapter of our Father in the Mishneh), ben Tema said, "At fifty, one is able to give counsel." While my children don't always appreciate my advice, with five decades behind me, I do feel that I have some hard earned insights to offer. Looking around at others, I can appreciate that everyone has their own perspective and experience. Certainly, there isn't one size fits all. Life is unpredictable and often there are multiple solutions or responses to any given challenge. I find as I grow older that I am less judgmental because I recognize the complexity of life.

Fifty in the Torah is also the Jubilee year. This is when the land of Israel returns to its ancestor holdings, slaves are freed, and the land rests from sowing and plowing. Jubilee, I like that word because, in truth, I do feel jubilant. I'm not free from responsibility but I do feel a liberation of sorts because I am doing things that I like to do, my work is meaningful, and I feel blessed to have loving family, friends, and community.

And so fifty doesn't sound scary to me. At the half century mark, I look behind at the stages of my life and marvel at how experiences have shaped me. And I find myself looking forward to novel experiences, acquiring wisdom, growing, learning, and living. Thank you for being part of my life journey.

President's Message

It's hard to believe the High Holy Days have already passed. I want to thank everyone who has already donated to the Yom Kippur appeal. The funds from our annual appeal help us to continue our excellent programming, support our schools, and make needed repairs to the building and grounds. More importantly, your donation makes it possible for those who are less fortunate in our community to remain engaged in Jewish life.

We will be listing the names of all the High Holy Day donors in our upcoming Megillah. If for some reason you did not have an opportunity to donate during the appeal, you can still participate by contacting the office by October 29, 2019. And for those who might be interested in making a donation of appreciated stock to Beth David in honor of the High Holy Days, we are enclosing an informational letter for your consideration.

We would love to see everyone participate regardless of the amount, and to have our next Megillah list everyone's names as High Holiday donors. I was proud of the high percentage of our membership donating to our appeal last year and I would love to see an even greater level of participation for this year.

Thank you again for your commitment to Beth David, and for helping us maintain our important role in our Jewish community.

Sincerely,

Eric Schiffer, President

Beth David Brotherhood

November/December 2019

By Charlie Niederman

With the fall season in full swing, the Brotherhood has been very busy. Culinary co-chairs Ted Cohen and David Metz provided a barbecue for 40 students and six teachers and several parents at the end of first day of Jewish school. Once again Brotherhood provided High Holiday ushering service, this year with an extra emphasis on safety and security. Thanks to all the ushers and to Religious Practices Chair Elliot Semmelman for recruiting and scheduling them.

Brotherhood's uniquely designed large Sukkah, served as the site for Sukkot activities especially Temple's Annual Sukkot potluck dinner. Thanks to the cadre of Brotherhood members and others, young and old from the congregation for erecting and taking it down.

On October 27, the Brotherhood, along with Adult Education and Social Action, with funding from the Beth David Foundation, provided a brunch featuring guest speaker Hen Mazzig, an officer in the Israel Defense Force who worked closely with West Bank Palestinians to reduce violence and promote cooperation. He also described the acceptance he received in the IDF as a member of the gay community. Culinary co-chairs David Metz and Ted Cohen cooked a delicious brunch enjoyed by an audience of more than 60, including seventh grade students comped by the Brotherhood.

Brotherhood is also proud to be a part of the group of Temple arms that funded the new audio visual and internet system, contributing more than $6,000. With the improved audio, video cameras and screens and the ability to live-stream all services to homebound members, Beth David has entered a new era.

Coming up next is the Veteran's Day Synaplex service on November 8th. Brotherhood's culinary chairs will lead the team that will provide the dinners.

The Chanukah Carnival will be on Sunday, December 8th this year. We will need some help from parents to run the game booths, and we will be asking for sponsors to help us to make the event more fun for everyone.

Every Man a Member!

ARZA By Charlie Niederman

Association of Reform Zionists of America

November/December 2019

Charlie Niederman, VP, Planning & Development

The US administration's peace plan is said to be ready for release, but they will wait to publicly present it until after a new Israeli government is formed.

Jared Kushner recently met in Israel with both Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, leader of the Likud Party, and Benny Ganz leader of the Blue and White Coalition, who is now getting his turn at forming a new governing coalition. They briefly discussed the US Administration's peace proposal, never getting far beyond the timing of the plan's release. Kushner did encourage them both to establish a government as soon as possible.

In a TV interview Kushner was asked what the US administration's position was on the possible annexation of the Jordan Valley. It is the area between the West Bank and Jordan and is considered a strategic barrier by the current coalition. He replied that the administration would like to keep its options open.

The September election results left Likud (32 seats) led by Prime Minister Netanyahu, and the Blue and White Coalition (33 seats) led by former Chief of the Israeli Defense Force, Benny Gantz without a clear road to a 61-seat majority. Netanyahu was unable to form a rightwing coalition government, and Gantz may find it equally difficult to set up a center left coalition. The biggest issue is that the Arab coalition has earned 13 seats.

Avigdor Lieberman and his Yisrael Beiteinu Party, that is right center and controls 8 seats, has said that they will not serve in a Netanyahu coalition, and will not join a coalition that includes the left leaning Arab Joint List. If this seems like an impenetrable maize, then you understand what is going on. Will Gantz accomplish what Netanyahu couldn't, or will there be another election? By the next Megillah in January we will know.

Retired Professor of History Dr. Yitz Grenberg, is an American scholar, author and Modern Orthodox Rabbi. He is President of the National Jewish Center for Learning and Leadership, and offers a glass is half full view of the September election results. He posits that the high-water mark of anti-democratic populism was in the April 2019 election and that the September election was a victory for democracy in Israel. In April Netanyahu was one vote away from forming a coalition. In the category of things that were avoided by holding the September election are:

- The coalition would have passed a law providing immunity from prosecution to the prime minister. The Supreme Court would have over ridden the law.
- The Knesset then would have passed a law to end the Supreme Court's authority to override laws.
- Netanyahu promised to annex the Jordan Valley corridor and hinted broadly that he would go on to annex the whole West Bank.

In the September election some extremists lost seats, and Netanyahu was not able to form a far-right coalition. So, the April fears did not materialize.

Dr. Grenberg warned that a third election should be made anathema by public opinion and the press. As Winston Churchill supposedly said: "Democracies always do the right thing – after every other option is exhausted." But, Grenberg does see hope for fulfillment of what he believes is a step toward a more democratic Israel. Below are some of the things going on as Blue and White works toward a coalition government.

Blue and White party leader Benny Gantz and Avigdor Lieberman, head of the Yisrael Beytenu party, met amid Gantz's efforts to cobble together a unity coalition. They addressed "among other things, the issues of security, the state budget, the possible political scenarios and other topics." The statement said that a meeting between the negotiating teams of the two parties will be held soon. Gantz says his meeting with Netanyahu yesterday did not yield any "tangible progress." "The ruling party does not want to hold a practical discussion about policy guidelines," he told a faction meeting of his Blue and White party in the Knesset. "We will continue to talk to everyone and listen to the small parties, but we will not let them dictate the entire public agenda," he added. Gantz will meet Thursday with Ayman Odeh, the chairman of the Joint List alliance of majority-Arab parties, his Blue and White party said.

Yair Lapid, the number 2 of Blue and White accused the Prime Minister, who is facing a pending indictment in three corruption cases, of seeking to impose an unprecedented third election on Israelis in under a year. Material for this article was drawn from The Jerusalem Post and Israel Times.

As a final note, in January Beth David will begin a campaign to encourage everyone to vote in the US election for delegates to World Zionist Congress. The Reform movement needs to be fully represented.

SISTERHOOD MATTERS...

Dear Friends,

Our new year started off great with a beautiful brunch. Thank you to Mickey Lewin and Sue LeBoff for all their hard work to plan such a lovely morning. Also, thanks go to their committee members: Mulu Harrison, Debbie Crowley, Marlene Wedner, Eileen Tobey, Marcia Rosenzweig, Florence Sudakow, and Annette Helfman.

Also, Sisterhood provided our religious school students with apples and honey for Rosh Hashanah and cupcakes and dipped pretzels to enjoy in the Sukkah. Thank you to Eileen Tobey and our school director, Sarah Gipoor, for coordinating these and allowing us to support our students as they learn about and enjoy

The program from Sharsheret, regarding breast and ovarian cancer, which was originally planned for October, has been rescheduled for November 3, at 2:00, so you still have a chance to learn about what you can do to keep yourself healthy. Please RSVP to Sisterhood@tremplebethdavid.org.

Additionally, in November, we will be wine tasting, with chocolates and cheeses, on Sunday, November 10. This will be at Seal Beach Winery. Please look for details in the flyer in this Megillah or in Shavuah Tov, and RSVP soon before it's full! I'm really looking forward to this event!!

December brings the Chanukah Carnival on December 8. But first, on December 7, we need to start preparing the latkes. These need many volunteers, so if you can help either or both days, please email me at our Sisterhood email above, or call me at my number in the Temple directory. And even if you can't help, please attend the carnival to enjoy the latkes, boutique, Judaica shop, games, and fun!

November is Thanksgiving, and I am so thankful for all the wonderful women of Beth David: our amazing staff, Edie, Charlie, and Mulu, my incredible board (too numerous to name, but I love you all!), and all of our Sisterhood members. If you haven't yet joined Sisterhood, please know that you are still welcome at our events. Our board members work hard to create events that we hope will be interesting and worth your time, and we hope many of you will attend. If you have ideas for events you would like to see, please email or call me anytime.

Wishing you all a wonderful November and December, Happy Thanksgiving and Happy Chanukah!
Shalom,
Laurie Schneider

Finding Comfort in the Perfect Mug...

Personally, I think a good strong cup of Tea always helps set things straight...

'If You will it, it is no dream'
-Theodor Herzl, 19th Century

This is the quote I read whenever I reach for my new and favorite Beth David Mug, especially when I need to have a hot strong cup of Tea. This is just one, of the Four Mugs available with its unique quote and calming light Green accent color.

While I have many other Mugs to choose from, this one calls to me the most. I'm not sure if it's the quote, accent color, the new Beth David logo, or all three. It's easy to see why this Mug is used more often than some of my others. With its comfortable handle, one may hold it from the outer part or simply loop their fingers through it like a warm hug.

These Mugs along with other very cool Beth David Swag and authored books by Temple Members are also for sale. Look for our new display case in the Temple Foyer, next to the office.

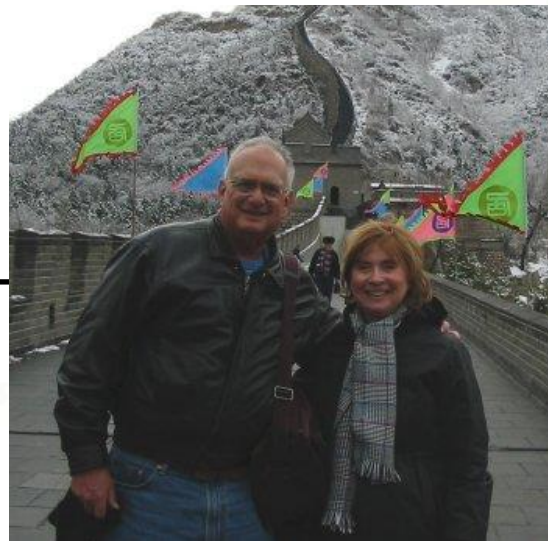

Don't let your cold days or your thoughtful moments be without your new Beth David Mug ...

Sholom and Warm Regards !

Have you Met.....

Sue & Jeff LeBoff

Of course you have! Sue and Jeff have been involved, committed members of the Beth David family for so many years now. Quietly and steadily, they have made Beth David the best place to be...they have given their time and energy to Sisterhood and Brotherhood...they are cherished.

Sue, with her good friend, Mickey Lewin, chaired the Sisterhood Donor committee for many years, giving us lovely donor luncheons. Now, they are both committed to strengthening Sisterhood membership. Along the way, Sue received the prestigious Woman of Merit award. But she actually has a life outside Temple, as well. Sue, a UCLA graduate in math, was a substitute teacher at Marina High School (my own kids had her in some of their classes!), and taught part time at Golden West College. When her own boys went off to college, Sue became a full time teacher at Westminster High School. Now that she has the luxury of being retired, she attends history lectures, reads, and makes gorgeous jewelry.

Jeff has been President of Brotherhood and was the Brotherhood Man of the Year. He has served on Temple and Brotherhood boards for years, and is still available whenever Brotherhood needs him (which is quite often). He has had an interesting professional life, as well. Jeff graduated from UCLA with a degree in engineering which he used for many years. After 'retiring' from engineering, he became a real estate agent, and if that was not enough, he then studied at UCI and became an Orange County Court mediator, mostly in a volunteer capacity. Now that he is completely 'retired', he plays golf, occasionally attends history lectures, and still gets involved with Brotherhood activities. I bet he can put up a sukkah in no time at all!

But how did they meet? Despite the fact that they both went to the same university, it wasn't until after graduation that Sue's roommate's mother (got that?) gave Jeff's mother Sue's name at a wedding that the two mothers were attending! Whew! Clearly, the 'referral' was good. Sue and Jeff have two married boys. Michael and Abby have given them two wonderful granddaughters, Anna and Megan. David and Karen are expecting their first child this winter. When not being grandparents or getting involved in Temple life, the LeBoffs love to travel, and have been to numerous countries and United States' iconic cities. They truly love Beth David. Sue says it is such a friendly place. Jeff says, and I quote, "It's a place where everyone knows your name". Cheers, everyone!

Upcoming Bat Mitzvah

Alia Pasternak

Alia Pasternak, daughter of Janine and Jason, will be called to the Torah as a Bat Mitzvah on November 9th

She plays AYSO soccer, swims for Golden West Swim Club and is on her school Track team. Alia enjoys being a member of NCL & Cotillion. She also loves participating in the Huntington Beach Junior Guards program every summer. For her Mitzvah project, Alia participates in multiple harbor and beach cleanups. She is also coordinating with the HBJG Program in building a memorial bench and securing a new flag pole.

Upcoming B'nei Mitzvah

Calvin & Sydney Chait-Walter

Calvin Douglas & Sydney Camille Chait-Walter will celebrate their B'nei Mitzvah on November 16, 2019.

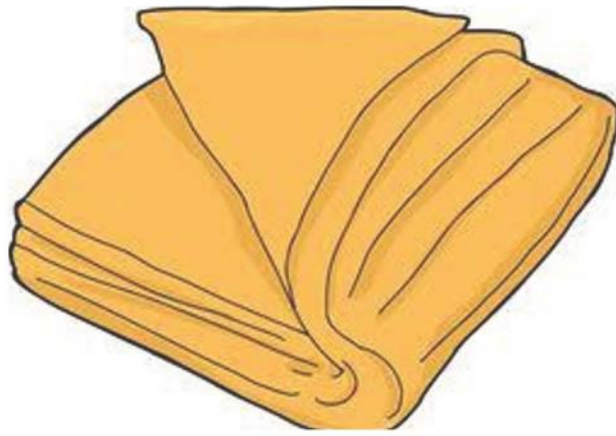

Calvin, who is a 7th grade student at McAuliffe Middle School in Los Alamitos, is a cellist with the McAuliffe String Orchestra and tenor saxophonist with the McAuliffe Jazz Band. Calvin began studying the Suzuki method of cello at the age of five and for the past three years he has extended his studies through summer programs at the internationally renowned Interlochen Center for the Arts. Calvin has also performed with the Southern California Youth Symphony Orchestra (SCYSO) and the Electric Cello Lab at Temple Israel in Long Beach. As a saxophonist with the McAuliffe Jazz Band, Calvin performed at the 2019 Reno Jazz Festival where the band placed 5th. Sydney, who is a 7th grade student at Oak Middle School in Los Alamitos, is a violinist with the Oak String Orchestra. Sydney began studying the Suzuki method of violin at the age of five and has enriched her study through three years of summer programs at the internationally renowned Interlochen Center for the Arts. In addition to her violin study, Sydney has a passion for creativity that over the past four years has led her to develop a talent fashion design and sewing.

Over a year ago, Calvin initiated a tzedakah project in preparation for his Bar Mitzvah by volunteering his time on Saturday mornings at the Mary Wilson Public Library in Seal Beach. At the culmination of his project, Calvin joined the library's Storytime program for Music Week, providing cello accompaniment and teaching the children some of the basics of playing the instrument. When Calvin is not playing an instrument, reading or doing his homework, you will find him bodyboarding, surfing, skateboarding or playing video games. Upon turning twelve, Sydney initiated a tzedakah project in preparation for her upcoming Bat Mitzvah. She employed her sewing and design skills to establish her own socially responsible small business. Sydney set up a store on Etsy to sell products that she hand-makes, including pencil bags, make-up bags, totes and hair ties. She has designated that all proceeds from the sale of these products will go to an organization in Uganda called the Connect Africa Foundation. The Foundation is a grass roots organization whose mission is to strengthen families and communities by providing educational sponsorship to Ugandan children orphaned by AIDS, and business loans to their guardians.

When Sydney is not playing violin, sewing new products for her business or doing homework, she also enjoys designing and sewing her own clothing and accessories, reading, swimming, skateboarding and surfing.
